

Thoughts in _____ mind...

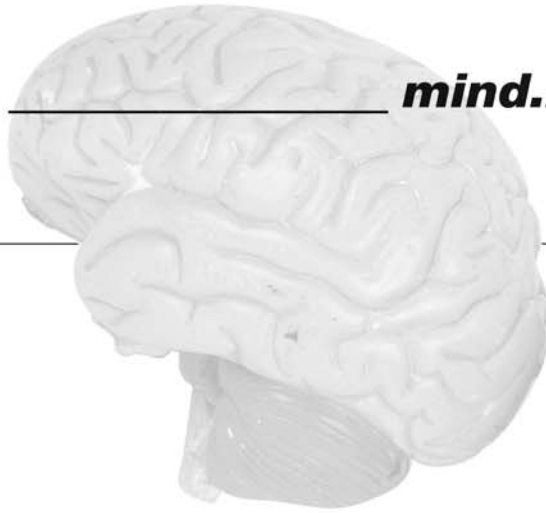

What I Think

I think that the war wasn't worth it. All it came to was the generals talking together and shaking hands. It probably that everyone was who lost their dad or brother was mad. I thought it was wierd that Grant strated to talk about the good old days. How could they have good days their on different sides of the war. I think 4 years is a long time for war. Why did it take so long?

What I Viewed

4 years of civil war
Lee and Grant talk together to end the civil war
~~600,000 people died~~
People thought Lee was good
10,000 on both sides died in 3 days.
Grant was Union Lee is confederate
Lees army was beaten
Grant talks about good old days.
Everyone is friends

Thoughts in _____ mind...

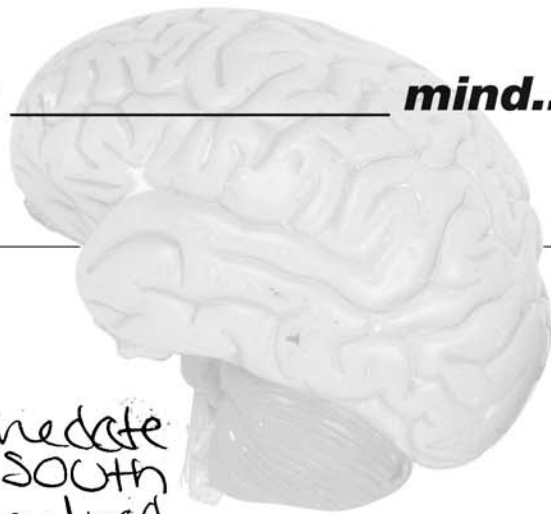

What I Think

- It must of been really nerve racking to be in a room filled with other soldiers
- The war must of been pretty bad because 600,000 soldiers died.
- The confederates must of been mad when the war was turned against them.
- I think I would have been really overjoyed to see that the war was finally over.
- I think Lincoln was happy that the war was over

What I Viewed

- handful crowd into room to see the two generals
- four years of war 600,000 lives were taken.
- July 1863 war turned against confederates
- 1863 finally Lee's army was defeated
- Finally peace is restored with just one handshake

Thoughts in _____ mind...

What I Think

• This was the date when the South (Confederacy) had surrendered to the Union.

• I would have been very impatient if I was in the same room as Grant and Lee if all they did was talk about the good old days!

• Wow that is a lot of people that died so that our country can be a nation once more.

• If I was on the Union and the Confederates just kept winning battle after battle and we weren't winning anything, I would've given up all hope... but it's a good thing that they didn't!

• When the South surrendered it must have been a huge turning point for the nation.

• I think I would've felt very uncomfortable when the Confederates + Union soldiers eat together after a hard war!

What I Viewed

• April 9, 1865 was when the fighting would end.

• Robert E. Lee was a Confederate General (Business)

• Ulysses S. Grant was a Union General (distracted)

• Grant can't look Lee in the eye and ask for a surrender

• 600,000 lives have been lost

• Confederates won several early battles, General Lee was in charge.

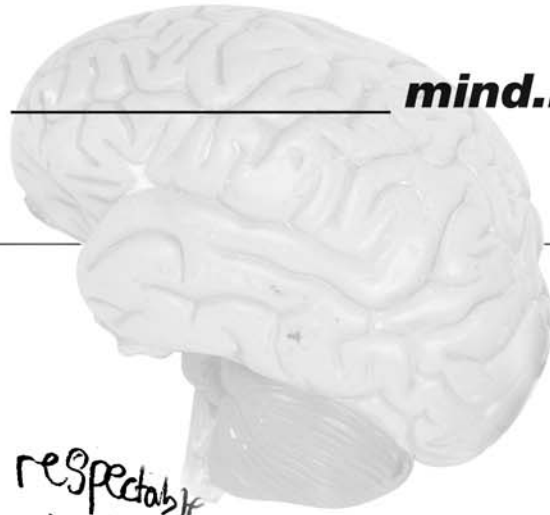

• 1864 Grant was made general of all Union armies

• 1865 Lee's army was defeated.

• Grant's terms for surrender are very generous.

• South surrendered
• North had strained volunteers

Thoughts in _____ mind...

What I Think

I find it respectable that Grant hushed his soldiers for cheering after South lost because the South is once again united with the North, I think it's weird that Grant and Lee were partners in the Mexican War. I think it's horrible that 600,000 people died in 4 years. I don't understand how one handshake could end a war and mortal

What I Viewed

4 years of war
April 9, 1865
Appomattox Courthouse, VA
Lee businesslike
Grant Distracted
600,000 died in 4 years
Ft Sumter, SC is where it started
Union lost 2 straight battles in 2 years 100,000 thousands died
Confederate won early battles
40,000 wounded or killed from Ghettysburg
1841 Grant took over union
ARMIES.
60,000 died
Grant described old times working with Lee in Mexico
Ending with handshake
North and South were united

The South needs ~~best~~ more people to be a bitter battle

I think it is good for the men to sing +
play music its a good way to bond
+ pass time.

I think it would be scary if the confederates were coming from the North
+ the west, + I think it would be weird if they were
taking prisoners of war.

Summary

If General Lee needed
to win a war in the North he should have planned it out + had a back-up plan.
